

Competitive funding available for the 2023 Call for Scientific Research and Capacity Building Proposals

LAUNCH: 10 November 2023, midnight JST
SUBMISSION DEADLINE: 10 December 2023, midnight JST

The Asia-Pacific region, home to over half of the global population, faces growing development challenges that strain natural resources and cultural heritage, and is further exacerbated by adverse environmental impacts. The Asia-Pacific Network for Global Change Research (APN) is well-positioned to generate new knowledge and solutions for these evolving global change and sustainability issues by supporting collaborative research and scientific capacity development activities, particularly those aimed at training the next generation of early-career professionals.

2023 Call for Proposals

APN is inviting proposals under two separate programmes supporting APN's core activities through our Collaborative Regional Research Programme (CRRP) and the Scientific Capacity Development Programme (CAPaBLE), for funding from October 2024. A limited amount of funding is available to support CRRP and CAPaBLE activities relevant to APN's thematic areas that specifically target one (or more) subregional priority topics.

Scan or click for more information!

Virtual seminars

APN is pleased to announce that it will be holding two virtual seminars to provide introductory overviews, guidance, and tutorials on submitting successful proposals to our annual Call for Proposals. We open our invitation widely to interested project proponents based institutionally in our network of 22 countries, and especially welcoming persons who fulfil our criteria for early-career professionals. The two seminars will be held virtually in the English language on:

Thursday, 9 November 2023 (16:30 JST)

Friday, 10 November 2023 (11:00 JST)

Scan or click for
more information
and registration!